C. Important information for retirement account participants: Pursuant to the custodial agreement, if the participant has designated his or her spouse as a beneficiary, upon the divorce, annulment or other lawful dissolution of their marriage, the designation of the spouse as beneficiary shall be null and void, and the beneficiary shall be determined as if the spouse had predeceased the participant. If the participant wishes to retain the ex-spouse as a beneficiary, the participant must submit a new designation of beneficiary dated after the date of divorce, annulment or other dissolution of the marriage.

If any beneficiary listed above is a former spouse who is being re-designated as a non-spouse beneficiary after the date of divorce, please re-identify the non-spouse beneficiary here.

Important information for married account owner: If you are married and live in a community or marital property state (including but not limited to AZ, CA, ID, LA, NM, NV, TX, WA and WI) and are not naming your spouse as primary beneficiary, spousal consent may be required. It is the account owner's responsibility to determine if spousal consent is required. Please consult a tax or financial advisor. IIS and its affiliates are not responsible for determining whether an account owner is married and/or is a resident of a state in which community property rules apply and are not liable for any consequences resulting from failure to provide spousal consent.

By signing this form, I affirm that (i) I am the spouse of the account owner named in section 1 and (ii) I expressly consent to the designated beneficiary(ies) in section 2 and/or attached.

I certify I have read this designation of beneficiary and voluntarily and irrevocably consent to the designation of beneficiary. I understand I am not designated as the participant's sole primary beneficiary.
